New Cabinet Ladies
Meet Society's O. K.

MRS. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (AT TOP)
AND MISS JOSEPHUS DANIELS

If Mr. Wilson had allowed the women of the country to select his cabinet members for the qualifications of their wives alone there would be a big O. K. after every name.

Mrs. Bryan, the wife of the secretary of state, is a most important link in the social chain. To her will fall the delicate task of maintaining friendly relations between the wives of all foreign diplomats and other women of the cabinet and the social world at large. Mrs. Bryan knows Washington from the smallest details of its government machinery to the complicated maze of social intricacies. She will be aided in the duty of official entertaining by a daughter and daughter-in-law.

Mr. McAdoo, the new secretary of the treasury, is a widower, and his eldest daughter will act as hostess for her father. The McAdoo family will make a notable addition to Washington society.

Mrs. Burleson, the wife of the new postmaster general, will need no introduction to Washington society or the public in general. She has lived at the capital for a number of years as the wife of a popular member of congress from Texas. She makes graceful use of her pen in playlets and work of a light and witty nature. It is said, "What a pity Mrs. Burleson does not devote her entire time to writing, for she might take a prominent place among playwrights."

Mrs. Josephus Daniels adds another graceful southern woman to official society. She is already well known in Washington, where her mother, Mrs. Worth Bagley, lives. As the wife of the secretary of the navy she is an assured success.

Mrs. Franklin Lane is another cabinet woman already identified with Washington life. She is fond of music, art and literature, has an artistic home and likes dancing and the lighter accomplishments of society. The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Lane have two children, a son of sixteen and a daughter, Nancy, ten years old.

Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, wife of the new secretary of war, is a stranger in Washington, and so is her husband. She is a western girl, but was raised in Philadelphia. Her father was Captain Samuel Hildeburne, U. S. A.

Mrs. Redfield, wife of the new secretary of commerce, is familiar with the duties devolving upon the wife of a cabinet member. She is a New York woman, but has spent part of each season in Washington since her husband became a member of the house. A Democratic woman said recently of Mrs. Redfield, "You cannot better describe her than that she is exactly the type of woman you would expect to be associated with the Wilson administration and has the same tendencies, same likes and dislikes as has Mrs. Wilson."

Secretary William B. Wilson of the new department of labor will have the youngest husband for his household of any cabinet member. Miss Agnes Wilson, who will take her mother's place, as the secretary's wife is not fond of society and prefers to keep her young family on the farm in Pennsylvania.

The secretary of agriculture and his wife are now in Washington, and Mrs. Houston is making her first acquaintance with official circles.

James C. McReynolds, attorney general, is the only bachelor of the cabinet. He will probably have twenty invitations for dinner in a single night and become at once a Man of society.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The causes leading up to the presentation of the resignation of Mayor A. A. Perrine have been brewing for some time, in fact from about the time of his election, when there was considerable discussion in regard to the appointments and after much arguing for and against, it was decided to allow the mayor to have his way for awhile and if the local members were not satisfied they would ask the mayor to make some changes. It was only a short time after taking office that the mayor began to miss one meeting then two, and acted as though he would rather be somewhere else than at the local meetings. Then when the local wanted to consult with him on any subject it was necessary to write to him as he would not come for a verbal message, and would ignore the Socialist party as much as possible. Then instead of being the most active member of the party in Mt. Vernon he was conspicuous by his absence. Had he joined the party for the express purpose of disorganizing the Socialist party in Mt. Vernon he could not have done a much better job of it.

In his statement about disgruntled office seekers he accuses one man of trying to get even with him because the mayor would not give him the position of secretary of the water works. That man's application was placed in the hands of the advisory board and was never presented to the local for acceptance or refusal, and as for the bunch that attended council meeting the night the resignation was presented, neither of them had ever applied for any appointment from the mayor. At least had refused to put in an application when requested to do so by the mayor.

The mayor accuses the bunch, as he calls it, of using the Socialist party as a club to blackmail him. If he studied Socialism, he would have known more about it. Then he goes on to say the men who met and decided to present his resignation did not represent the Socialist party sentiment. If he will look over the party constitution he will see that only members in good standing are eligible to vote on referendums and it is immaterial whether there are five hundred or only five. As long as they are the attendants that look after the local and are transacting business under their own charter they represent the Socialist party of Mt. Vernon; and again if the mayor had been a Socialist he would never have slurred working men by saying they were incompetent to hold some small appointive office.

The act that finally culminated in presenting the resignation was in regard to service and safety directors. Some time in February he wrote to C. O. Beum and asked him what he thought of combining the office of safety director with the superintendent of water works and the service director with the city engineer. Some members of the local thought it could not be done under the present municipal code, so there was a committee selected to look the matter up. In the meantime the secretary was instructed to write the mayor and tell him to go ahead if he would put Socialists in the positions mentioned. The committee reported that after consulting legal authority that abolishing of the two offices could not be done. Then the local selected two men to fill the offices of service and safety directors and presented the names to the mayor and he ignored the communication until written to again about the matter. Then he sent a letter couched in terms that told the local Socialist party that they had nothing to do with his administration and he would run it to suit himself. Then there was nothing else to do but carry out the law as laid down by the state constitution, Sec. 2, Article 17, which says, in part: "Any member accepting nomination shall sign his resignation dated blank to be presented to the proper officers should he as a candidate or after election fail to adhere to and practice the precepts and principles of the party, or refuse to obey the mandates of the party upon becoming a member."

He signed the following statement as all Socialists do:

"I, the undersigned, recognizing the class struggle between the capitalist class and the working class and the necessity of the working class constituting themselves into a political party distinct from and opposed to all parties formed by the capitalist class, hereby declare that I have severed my relations with all other parties and I indorse the platform and constitution of the Socialist party, including the principle of political action, and hereby apply for admission to said party."

For the benefit of the local members we wish to state Comrade Perrine, mayor of Mt. Vernon, will be tried for willfully violating Secs. 2 and 3, Article 17, also Sec. 1, Article 13, of the state constitution of the Socialist party of Ohio, at the next regular meeting of the party. We have no secrets and
